Tips for Submitting Your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)

Submit Your FAFSA as soon as possible: You can submit a FAFSA beginning January 1. Submitting this document as early as possible will ensure you have ample time to obtain your Student Aid Report (SAR) and upload it to your application prior to the deadline. Working together with your parents, guardians or support systems, you should file your federal income taxes as soon as possible to aid you in completing an accurate FAFSA.

Submit Your FAFSA online: Delta Gamma Foundation encourages you to file your FAFSA electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Submitting your FAFSA online and providing your valid email address will ensure your FAFSA is processed quickly and your SAR is generated in a timely manner.

If you submit your FAFSA online, the U.S. Department of Education will email you a link to your SAR within 7-10 days after your FAFSA has been processed; follow the directions in the email to obtain your SAR. Otherwise, you will receive your SAR in the mail.

Canadian collegians: Please upload you most recent Notification/Letter of Assessment from your provincial government outlining your qualification for need-based grants and loans.

Submitting Your Application

To complete your application, you must submit the following items in SmarterSelect.

Please ensure these documents include your name and academic year, as this is the most common reason for applications being denied:

- An essay explaining your financial need.

- A copy of any financial aid documents for the current academic year including:

 - Your cost of attendance
 - Your expected family contribution

Each recipient will be granted $2,500, which will be paid directly to the college or university for credit to her account for educational purposes only. Funds may not be used for Delta Gamma dues or expenses.

Awards will be granted as funds are available. Applications will open August 1 and will close once all funds have been awarded.
