Delta Gamma Consultant Program History

“Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn’t do than by the ones you did do. So sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore. Dream. Discover.” - Mark Twain

Delta Gamma’s Field Consultant program began in 1941 when First Vice President Roberta Abernethy asked Jean Pierce, a new Ohio State graduate and member of Epsilon chapter, to travel to Colorado to handle a special assignment with Phi chapter.

This trip was such a success that when Miss Abernethy became Delta Gamma’s first Executive Secretary and opened the Central Office in Columbus, Ohio, in 1942 with Jean Pierce as her assistant, this sort of assignment was repeated. For the next few years Jean often visited a chapter for recruitment or to handle a special problem. At the end of World War II in 1945 when Delta Gamma’s expansion program began, the demand for this sort of help increased. That year Council authorized the hiring of four Field Secretaries, the title by which they were known for the next 31 years.

During the first decade, Field Secretaries were assigned to chapters as needed, to aid with special problems or to assist with organization in the case of new chapters. In 1958, the first Collegiate Representatives to Council urged that all chapters be visited every year by a Field Secretary, but this did not come about until 1964 when the entire program was reviewed. It was at this time that the program was moved from the Executive Secretary’s supervision to that of the Vice President: Collegians. She was assisted by an Executive Offices staff member, the Collegiate Affairs Coordinator, in training, scheduling and communicating with the Field Secretaries.

The name Field Secretary was first selected because it matched that of a single province officer for the early 1940s – the Province Secretary – who was in charge of all collegiate and alumnae chapters in her province.

In 1976, Field Secretaries were re-named Field Consultants. The word “consultant” in the business world means “an expert in a particular field.” In Delta Gamma, a Field Consultant was an expert in all facets of the Fraternity and available to “consult” with anyone associated with a chapter she might be visiting. The purpose of a consultation is always the same: assessing the status of a chapter and exchanging ideas.

In 1989 the title of Field Consultant was changed to Collegiate Development Consultant. With the increasing workload of the Vice President: Collegians, Council appointed a Director of Collegiate Development Consultants to supervise and coordinate the program. In 1994, the program was moved under the position of the Vice-President: Development. In 1996 the program went through more change, and an Executive Offices staff position was created to run the program: The Coordinator of Consultants and Colonies, the Director of Expansion and Consultants (in 1999), and the Assistant Executive Director (in 2007). This position proved to be crucial for operation of the CDC program.

Again, in 2001, the Fraternity underwent a restructuring project that moved the CDC team back under the Vice President: Collegians. In 2014, the program transitioned back to staff supervision and now falls under the Member Services department at Executive Offices.

Tracey Doebling Williams, Beta Sigma-Maryland, current Executive Director (2015-present) oversaw the CDC program from 1996-2014. She is responsible for the majority of growth and changes made within the program, and can be credited with leading the program to the success it sees today. Tracey is a former CDC and former resident consultant. Former CDC Lorie Hunter Holt, Epsilon-Ohio State, served as director of extension and consultants from 2014-2019. While overseeing the program, Lorie helped create two new staff positions: collegiate recruitment specialist and collegiate extension specialist. The program was then lead by Jacquelyn Ledford Wall, a member of Pi Beta Phi, from 2019-2023. She received her master's degree in college student personnel from the University of Tennessee where she served as the assistant director of the Jones Center for Leadership and Service.

Today, the program is led by the Assistant Director for Collegiate Development Taylor Mierendorf, Delta Kappa-South Florida. Taylor was a CDC from 2019-2021. After serving on staff as a Collegiate Development Specialist (CDS) in 2022, Taylor began co-coordinating the CDC program alongside Jacquelyn in 2023. Taylor took on the CDC program full-time in July 2023 while completing her master's degree in higher education and student affairs at The Ohio State University. In addition to coordinating the CDC program and supervising the team, Taylor assists with new chapter support and operations, resource management, and assists with chapter incidents.
