Council Trustee: Communications | Samantha McQuaig Siffring, Epsilon Nu-James Madison

Delivered on June 26, 2026, at Delta Gamma's 72nd Biennial Convention

Hello sisters! I'm honored to be slated to return as your Council Trustee: Communications.

Over the past two years, this role has given me a broader view of how members experience Delta Gamma—what helps you connect, what creates trust, and what makes you feel like you have a place in our future.

Council's vision is a Delta Gamma where, anchored in sisterhood, belonging is universal, change is embraced, and our bonds grow stronger every day.

Belonging is where that vision begins.

When members feel connected and heard, we can navigate change with greater trust. We can adapt while remaining grounded in who we are. And we can grow—welcoming more women into Delta Gamma, creating an experience they want to be part of for life, and strengthening our sisterhood for future generations.

Communications plays a critical role. It's how members know where we're going, it's how they see their role in our future, and it's how we strengthen trust among collegians, alumnae, staff and volunteers.

Over the past biennium, I've been proud to work alongside staff and volunteers to make our communications more strategic, useful and reflective of the full Delta Gamma experience.

There's more work ahead, and I'm excited to continue it- to help build a Delta Gamma where every member can say: I belong here, I matter here and I have a role in what comes next.
